Job Summary

Assumes shift-level leadership and coordination of nursing care on the assigned unit. Combines direct patient care responsibilities with supervisory duties, ensuring safe staffing, effective patient flow, and compliance with nursing standards. Acts as the Head Nurse designee during the shift and serves as a clinical resource for the nursing team.

Essential Duties & Responsibilities

1. Assumes shift-level leadership of the assigned nursing unit in the absence of the Head Nurse. Coordinates and oversees the delivery of patient care during the assigned shift, ensuring safe, high-quality, patient-centered care.
2. Evaluates patient acuity and determines appropriate nursing staff assignments for the shift. Ensures effective skill mix coverage and adjusts assignments as patient census and acuity change throughout the shift.
3. Provides direct patient care as part of the nursing team while maintaining oversight of unit operations. Serves as a clinical resource and role model for staff nurses, providing guidance on complex patient situations.
4. Coordinates shift handover processes, ensuring accurate and complete communication of patient status, pending orders, and critical information between outgoing and incoming nursing teams.
5. Monitors nursing care delivery on the unit during the shift. Observes and evaluates staff performance, provides real-time feedback, and escalates concerns to the Head Nurse or Nursing Supervisor as appropriate.
6. Ensures timely implementation of physician orders, medication administration, and nursing interventions. Monitors compliance with nursing policies, procedures, and evidence-based standards of care.
7. Responds to emergencies and urgent situations on the unit. Coordinates the nursing response to rapid response calls, Code Blue events, and other critical incidents during the assigned shift.
8. Manages patient flow on the unit including admissions, discharges, and transfers. Communicates bed availability and staffing status to the Nursing Supervisor and Bed Management as required.
9. Supervises Patient Care Technicians and Patient Care Assistants on the unit during the shift, ensuring tasks are delegated appropriately and performed safely within scope of practice.
10. Participates in the orientation and mentoring of new nursing staff. Supports the Clinical Instructor in unit-based education activities. Acts as a preceptor for new graduates and newly hired nurses.
11. Contributes to quality improvement activities on the unit, including incident reporting, participation in audits, and implementation of corrective actions. Supports achievement of unit quality indicators.
12. Maintains awareness of resource utilization on the unit, exercising care in the use of staff, supplies, and equipment. Reports supply shortages and equipment failures to the Head Nurse promptly.
13. Promotes effective communication and teamwork among all unit staff. Treats colleagues, patients, and families with dignity and respect. Facilitates resolution of interpersonal conflicts during the shift.
14. Follows all hospital-related policies and procedures. Participates in self and others' education, training, and development. Performs other related duties as assigned.
